This scientific event is part of the project Youth Voices Matter
Project financed by the U.S. Department of State

Dear Friends,

The IX International Scientific Spring Symposium is organized by the English and German Philology Department of Alecu Russo Bălți State University within the framework of the Youth Voices Matter Project.

Year by year, we have extended our partnership worldwide. This year, our organizing committee has co-partnered the academic communities from the USA, Romania, France, Ukraine, Georgia, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus. We strongly believe that the Symposium will offer a platform for educators, researchers and practitioners to share best practices on how to improve the quality of language education for future generations of students. We are convinced that the fruitful interaction of the participants during this two-day hybrid event will foster their professional communication, will advance their skills and knowledge and will assist them to stay up-to-date with the latest teaching methods and technologies.

We would like to thank the administration of Alecu Russo Bălți State University for their continuous engagement to sustain our efforts in organizing the IX International Scientific Spring Symposium.

We are extremely grateful to the U.S. Embassy Public Affairs Section in the Republic of Moldova for the encouragement and generous support in our endeavors.

“Why are some students successful at language learning whilst others are not? If we knew the answer to that question, the job of teaching and learning a language would be easy. We don’t, of course, but we can point to a number of factors which seem to have a strong effect on a student’s success or failure”.
